Atty. Callahan succumbs after heart attack at home

March 16, 1977

Norman Thomas Callahan, an attorney 26 years, active Greenfield resident for 42 and father of six children, died of a heart attack at his home early today. He was 52.

Atty. Callahan came to Greenfield as an elementary school pupil and had maintained a high interest in the community. He was senior partner in the law firm of Callahan and Curtiss and resided at 654 Bernardston Rd. with his wife of 25 years, the former Sarah M. (Sally) Barry.

His quiet good humor often brought balance to public meetings at which he spoke on behalf of clients or his own wide personal interests. He had a concern for his adopted hometown that stretched far into the future, a close friend said this morning. Sports, schools, politics, the law and his family were his main interests and he had many others.

Atty. Callahan had overcome recent heart problems and was actively pursuing a physical fitness program. He had quit smoking cigarettes and was good-naturedly trying to persuade close friends to join him.

He was born in Thompsonville, Conn., Nov. 1, 1924, the son of Thomas J. and Mary (Doppman) Callahan. He attended West Springfield schools until 1934. He was a 1942 graduate of Greenfield High School, a 1948 graduate of Tufts College and a 1951 graduate of Boston University School of

NORMAN T. CALLAHAN

Law. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1951.

He was a member of the American,

Massachusetts and Franklin County Bar Assns., American and Massachusetts Trial Lawyers Assns., Greenfield town meeting, Democratic Town Committee, the state bar assns., grievance committee, Board of Bar Overseers of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Joint Committee on Judicial Appointments, Greenfield Club, YMCA Health Club, Thomas Memorial Country Club and Greenfield Lions Club.

Atty. Callahan was a veteran of World War II, having served as an Army sergeant with the 1040th AAF Battalion and received an honorable discharge Jan. 25, 1946. He was a communicant of Blessed Sacrament Church.

Besides his wife, he leaves two sons, Barry G. and Bryan T., and four daughters, Mary M., Janet S., Elizabeth J. and Nancy E., all at home; a sister, Mrs. Paul J. Sullivan of Westboro and several nieces.

Services will be Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at the McCarthy Funeral Home and at 10 in Blessed Sacrament Church.

Calling hours will be Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home. The family requests in lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Holy Trinity School in care of Rev. Leonard B. Burke, administrator of Holy Trinity School, 182 High St.

Citizen of Greenfield

Greenfield mourns the death this week of Norman T. Callahan, senior partner in the law firm, Callahan & Curtiss.

A Greenfielder first and always, Norm Callahan was able to develop a broad knowledge of the world around him while maintaining throughout his relatively short lifespan a devotion to his hometown.

His wit and good humor made him pleasant company. He was not flamboyant; that wasn't his style. But he was an excellent public speaker. He was able to back a cause or claim without being disagreeable to those who had another viewpoint. As recently as the Greenfield annual town meeting April 30 he was on his feet arguing a point on the winning side of a question.

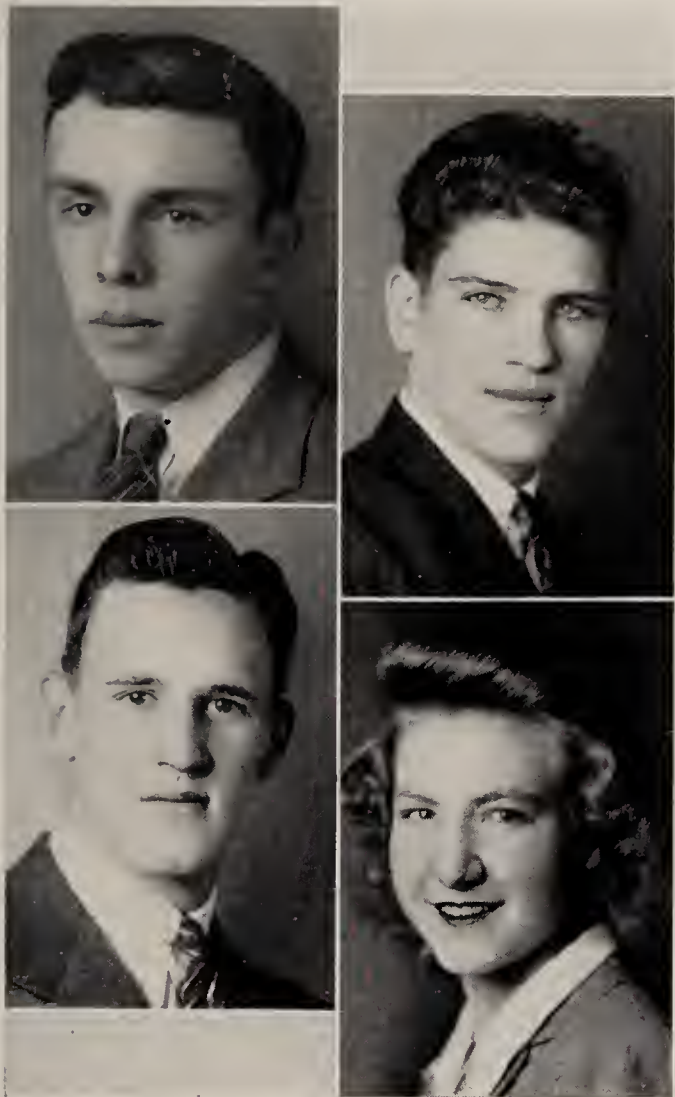

Norm Callahan was a rare person. He was able to take a stand without offending. Even during his law career he was the "middle" partner in a law firm, Hayer, Callahan & Shea, that consisted of two Democrats and a Republican. The other two went on, by choice, to become Massachusetts judges. That Norm Callahan retained his private law practice attests solely to his desire to remain a lawyer in the town he loved.

Every community is better for having boosters and backers who shun opportunities to go elsewhere for more renown than the hometown can provide. Norman T. Callahan, attorney-at-law, was such a person. Citizen of Greenfield, he died this week at 52, leaving a wife and family whom we join in this sad period of mourning.

FRANK CHRUSCIEL

Frank's tall figure and quiet manners have made him known, especially among the Vocational students. As a night worker in one of the local factories Frank didn't have much time to do extra-curricular work in school. He left early to take a full-time day job, a fact that shows he tended to his business here.

HENRY ALBERT CHYZ

"Henry"

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

PARENTS, teachers, and friends:

On behalf of the class of 1942 I welcome you to our class day exercises. We have assembled to hear various selections by different members of this class, chosen by the faculty for high scholastic standing, character, and contributions to Greenfield High School. Each is worthy of the privilege and honor which has been bestowed upon him.

My classmates:

I owe the greatest gratitude to you for having allowed me to represent you during this, your Senior Year. It is you who have done the work to make this class outstanding and commendable. This was a war year, and things were harder to accomplish. To you, then, should go all the credit for imbedding into the memories of this school the glory which has been the class of 1942. I hope that the school will never forget this class, because I know that we will never forget our school.

Parents and teachers:

We owe much to our parents — our parents who have brought us into this world, who have watched our childhood turn into manhood and womanhood, who have sacrificed that we might enjoy our youth. Our teachers, also, have done their part, for they have been the guideposts of our education. Five days a week they have attempted to broaden our minds and increase our intelligence. They have done their part even when we have whispered and fooled, and they have always been willing to forgive and to forget in order that we might start anew. They have struggled to prepare us for that life ahead, and they have done their job well.

As we go forth along our various ways, let us, the class of 1942, be of such high standard and worth that we shall bring credit and honor to Greenfield High School!

What Inter-American Cooperation Means to My Country

THE present war has caused the people of the United States to turn toward Latin America for friendliness and cooperation. It is this war that has made us realize how vital is cooperation between all the Americas. It must be understood, however, and I believe it is, that cooperating with the other American countries means doing business with them for mutual benefit — not for personal, selfish profit.

Probably the most frequently used word during the last year has been “defense.” Undoubtedly the most valuable aid to our defense program — and our new offense program — would be (and will be) Inter-American cooperation.

The first gain that we would receive by this voluntary association would be the direct aid that the Latin American countries would give us. By keeping enemies out of and away from our own nation, they would be averting a possible attack on our country by enemy craft by way of southern waters.

But probably even more important than this direct protection would be the assistance we would gain through trade with our neighbors to the south.

Many of the strategic war materials which we have formerly bought from other countries could be obtained from Latin America. Copper, lead, antimony ore, chromite, manganese, mica, nickel, mercury, tin, tungsten, sodium nitrate, all are materials which we have been importing in the past from other than Latin American countries. In 1939 we imported four hundred million dollars worth of these strategic materials, and of this amount only six million dollars worth — less than two per cent — came from Latin America. And yet South America has an unlimited supply of nearly all of these ores. If we would help them develop their mining facilities, we, as a result, could get these supplies from Latin America perhaps more cheaply and undoubtedly more rapidly than we did from our former European markets which we are now unable to reach because of the war. Naturally for awhile we could not get as great an amount of these materials as we have been formerly getting from now inaccessible sources. We cannot help that. A little is better than none, in any man's language. Also, of course, this trade cooperation between the two Americas would mean that, in the future, European wars — which do have a habit of cropping up now and then — would have little or no effect on our supply of vital metal imports.

Even the much-talked-of rubber-shortage problem could be solved to prevent recurrence of similar circumstances in the future. The project would take time, money, and labor, but it can be done. With Brazil as a market from which to buy rubber we would be insured against future scarcities such as we are now experiencing.

Besides the above-mentioned resources, Latin American countries lying within the tropical zone could supply us with food products which we cannot produce in our own country. Coffee, bananas, cacao beans, coconut oil, cinchona bark — the source of quinine — and sugar are all products which we cannot produce and thus are forced to import. Most of these products we have been importing from the Philippines, the Netherlands East Indies, or other countries in the Eastern Hemisphere. Now that these trade routes have been cut off, we should realize that we have a neighbor, the other Americas, that can supply us with these commodities.

Thus, I have shown that Inter-American cooperation would mean that we would be finding new countries from which to buy raw materials, and, on the other hand, at the same time we would obtain markets for our own manufactured goods.

It is a well-known fact that the system of importing raw materials and exporting manufactured goods is an extremely profitable one. That is the reason why in the era when the New England colonies were struggling to develop manufacturing, Britain — as the mother country — did all she could to discourage this development. Her system was to get raw materials from the New World and then to resell the goods she manufactured from these same raw materials. Applying this to modern times, we find that, because Latin American countries lack coal, oil, and other materials to produce power for manufacturing, it is probable that they would never become industrialized nations. They have always found it necessary to import textiles, clothing, prepared foods, machinery, automobiles, railway equipment, and many other articles which are manufactured in the United States. Their need for these goods would afford us with an outlet for our manufactured products. Thus this Inter-American association would have had its mutual economic benefits.

Aside from these gains, cooperation between the Americas would mean an exchange of the cultures of the two peoples. This would be decidedly advantageous to both nations. We in the United States would learn some of the great traditions of the Latin American people. Even more important, we would be exposed to the noble racial tolerance which our southern neighbors possess.

Literature is the most highly honored art in Latin America. The countries have many poets, essayists, and historians who have written in a style truly individualistic and reflective of their land. Inter-American cooperation would mean that the excellent literature of Latin America would become a part of our own nation's literary world.

Some of the painters, sculptors, and musicians in Latin America have won world-wide esteem. Well-known are the paintings of Diego Rivera, Jose Crozea, David Sequeros, and Sergio Guarderas. These men and their followers have created a revolution in art and contributed greatly to the aesthetic field. Some of them have already visited our country and beautified public buildings with murals. In the New School for Social Research in New York City may be seen murals by the Mexican artist Orozco, and in the same building are murals by Camilo Egas from Ecuador. If we were to become really good neighbors with the South, undoubtedly art in the United States would gain even more from the work of these great men.

Thus it may be seen that Inter-American cooperation would establish protection against common enemies, would bring a constant and insured supply of raw materials plus a market for manufactured goods — a system providing a favorable balance of trade, and would introduce a new spiritual and cultural strength to the United States. These advantages — protective, economic, and cultural — are all worth seeking.

KATHRYN MARY HICKS

The Future – South of the Border

EUROPE may be old, tired and pessimistic; the Americas are young, masculine and optimistic; theirs is a new land with remarkable natural resources to be developed and great empty spaces to be filled. Despite differences in race and civilization, the people of the United States have much in common with those of the Latin American countries. Some thinkers in both continents believe in the possibility of the development of a new civilization with Latin elements contributed by Latin American nations and Anglo-American elements contributed by the United States, founded upon the civilization inherited from Europe but different from it.

We have a great future in the South American countries, and we have new tools to work with. We can talk over the telephone to Buenos Aires, and this can be done as easily as talking with our next-door neighbor. Our steamships serving both coasts of the southern continent are the finest on the seas. Our business men can reach any southern capital with the utmost ease by air. The old concept of time and distance in relation to South America has vanished.

We shall have to develop that country if we are to benefit from it. This great undertaking will call for great ability and many thousands of workers in all fields of business: building contractors to build homes for the workmen, engineers to lay out roads and provide for the necessary transportation, skilled laboratory technicians to analyze and provide for better ways of doing the old things, doctors and nurses to keep the people feeling fit so that they will be able to build up a greater country. There will also have to be superintendents to guide these thousands of workers. Even the commercial workers will have their bit to say and do, while some of us who are in the machine shops will take our places at machines turning out articles for the defense of the country and the cherished rights of our life. The same for the future scientists — they are invited to spend their energy and ingenuity down south. Latin America invites the investor, but the American will have to discover the difference between gambling and investing.

Latin America offers a bright future for the colonist. Those interested in agriculture should turn their eyes to Argentina, for example, and its rich lands. They will be welcomed as the developers of the frontier.

The desperate need of the immigrant for a place to go is matched by the economic needs and opportunities of under-populated countries. Ecuador, Chile, Peru, Colombia, Venezuela, Bolivia, and Brazil, are countries with vast uninhabited areas which they are anxious to incorporate into the economy of their national existences. If substantial numbers of emigrants will have to leave Europe after the war, it is high time to plan now for their immigration. And think of all the employment this will create.

There are barriers in the way. For example, it is difficult to know a man with whom you cannot talk. We have begun the study of Spanish, which is a valuable and almost indispensable asset, but that effort will have to be speeded up. Those interested in Brazil must learn Portuguese. The Gregg Company has adapted a system of Spanish shorthand, and there is also a typewriter with the Spanish alphabet instead of the English one. Also a superficial knowledge, be it only the bare surface of the ways of the people, of their lives and their government, their habits and customs, goes a long way to break the ice when the student finds himself or herself down "South of the Border."

The cost of traveling south is still higher than that of a trip to Europe, but efforts are being advanced to break those higher prices. There is beauty in South America to equal that of any nation in Europe. We all have a part in the present situation, governments and business men alike. Together we can with energy, understanding, and foresight create in the great field of opportunity before us a commercial relationship with Latin America so sound, so logical, and so secure that neither the hazards of temporary depressions nor the waves of external competition can dislodge it.

There is, high in the Andes, a symbol that is as outstanding in South America as is the Statue of Liberty in the United States, the Christ of the Andes, on the border of two neighboring countries; a symbol of faith between them. The inscription reads: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble into dust than Argentina and Chile violate the Peace they have pledged at the feet of Christ the Savior."

JOHN POCUS

The Vocational School and Defense

THIS war that we are now waging against the Axis forces is much different from the one that was fought in 1917. This is a mechanical war, a war that counts the number of machines that can be turned to use. Our country is enlarging and adding to the opportunities for as many persons as possible to be trained in the thousands of trade schools all over the country.

Greenfield Vocational School is one of these many thousands devoted to the training of workers for our great war effort. We have 210 pupils in our Vocational School this year who have chosen one of the six different courses of study. Of these, five are shops for boys: two machine, one automobile and general metal, one cabinet, and one print shop. The other course is the Home Economics course for girls.

Considered as one of the most important is the machine training course. We have two machine shops which are known as the "old" and the "new." The old shop was started in the fall of 1937 and has given a three-year training period to approximately 35 students who have received their unit trade diplomas and taken their places in many different defense industries. These shops are run in cooperation with the state, which requires a 35-hour week in both academic and shop work. At the present time these two shops are training sophomores and juniors in the old shop and seniors in the new one. After three years of machine training, the students will graduate with a Unit Trade Machine diploma.

Machine shop students start work at 7:40 a.m. and get through at 3:00 p.m. 75 students are being trained, 36 being members of the class of 1942. The shop work consists of training on lathes, milling machines, turret lathes, grinders, shapers, drill presses, and tool crib work. Last summer the government proposed another machine shop to train senior boys or older men to fill in the vacant jobs caused by the expansion of defense plants and the draft call. This is the so-called "new" shop which was completed in November, 1941, at a cost of approximately $50,000.

Another vital course is the Automobile and General Metal Shop. Mechanics to repair trucks, tanks, and airplane engines, and metal smiths to work in foundries, steel mills, and shipyards are one of the vital necessities of our war effort. It takes a trained man to repair a motor and do it right. That is what students are being taught in our Automobile and General Metal Shop.

What would our National Defense Program do without new factories? That's where our Cabinet Shop comes in. The pupils in this shop are trained on a smaller scale, but they get the chief principles of building. They also learn upholstery and wood turning. During the present school they have filled a contract with the government to build solid airplane models.

The Print Shop is also doing its part in the National Defense Program. All kinds of circulars and air raid instructions and first aid pamphlets must be printed. All types of advertisements and posters will bring more employment to the printing establishments. Men who are drafted from this type of work must be replaced. Our Print Shop is going to help do this job by graduating a class of printers.

In addition to their shop work the vocational students have a related academic course that goes with the shop training. All vocational classes have English, physical education, social studies, related mathematics, science, and drawing. The type of related work depends upon the shop that the student is in. An example would be mechanical drawing. The Machine Shop students would draw gears, castings, tools, or other parts of a machine. The Automobile and General Metal Shop pupils would draw sheet metal work or parts of a gasoline engine. The Cabinet Shop boys would draw plans of houses, furniture, or model airplanes. The Print Shop students would draw layouts and plans for the work they print.

In social studies the vocational classes have studied world history, American government, and have done special work on Latin America. A weekly newspaper covering the present national and international news is the basis of the work in current events. The work in English consists of oral reports, outlining, composition and grammar work, and reading. Book reports are also required in English. Because the academic work alternates with the shop week, physical education is taken four times during the academic week to meet the state requirements.

The other course of the Greenfield Vocational School is devoted to the training of girls. They are taught cooking, sewing, budget accounting and planning, home decoration, child care, and first aid. This year they have also been knitting for the Red Cross. English, social studies, mathematics, science, and store service are also included in this course. There are 38 girls in this section of the Vocational School, 7 of whom are members of the class of 1942.

In addition to training students of high school age, the shops are used to train men and women for defense work. At 3:00 p.m. a class of twenty women train in the new shop, and after two hundred hours of machine training they are given a certificate which will help them find jobs as machine operators. In the old shop at this time a class of men come from out of town to train until 11:00 p.m. At 7:00 p.m. men selected from a number of industries in Greenfield receive advanced training in the new shop. When they leave at 11:00 o'clock, two other classes start, one in each shop, which conclude at 7:00 a.m. In short, workers are receiving training in our Machine Shop twenty-four hours a day.

This war is a mechanical war and requires the production of all types of war machines. Therefore, we must keep training workers to take their place in industry and in turn keep our vocational schools expanding and graduating a larger class each year. Greenfield is doing its share in the American war effort and every student and worker trained in its vocational school is an asset to America.

Class History

TIME: 1952.

PLACE: In Greenfield.

CHARACTERS: Moe and Doe.

ACTION: Moe, panting heavily, is pushing with all his strength a tandem bicycle up Federal Street.

Moe: Hey, Doe, come on. How about pushing a little? This is a fifty-fifty proposition, you know.

Doe: Oh, wasn't I pedaling? Gosh, I was so busy looking at the first item on our scavenger-hunt list that I must have forgotten.

Moe: Well, what is the first thing we've got to find?

Doe: It says here: "Find all the copies of the "Exponent" issued between September 7, 1939, through May 30, 1942." Now, where in the world can we find them?

Moe: Say, this is going to be hard. I wonder if "Walt" Grader, our Sophomore President, would have some?

Doe: Sure — let's go —

(Moe and Doe jump on to their bicycle built for two and pedal off to "Walt" Grader's house.)

* * *

Moe: Gee! We got all of the papers for our Sophomore Year. We surely "went to town" in our Sophomore Year, didn't we? "Walt" Grader as President, Jeanette Bolton and George Robichaud as Vice-Presidents and Paul Sullivan as Secretary, "Betty" Hood as Treasurer, got us off to a gay start with ten dollars deficit.

Doe: And that Sophomore Reception — remember how very, very foolish George Robichaud got on the grape juice stirred up by the Home Ec. girls?

Moe: It has been secretly said that John Moore spent more than one week in the hospital as a direct result of the punch.

Doe: And remember the S.A.S. dance — no one got killed, but several husky lads were ambushed owing to the fact that our Sophomore year was Leap Year.

Moe: Among these lads were the "Billies" (Guil-low, Valvo, Mroz, Harris and Shea) and those other "kids" — Bosworth, Chabot, Yetter and Totaro — all of whom also were our star "hoopsters."

Doe: Then there was "Nautical Marietta." I was quite surprised to see how bow-legged our drummer boy, "Don" Gilmore, was, but —

Moe: What a shape the girls of Delta Sigma Rho and Alpha Beta Phi were in when they couldn't find enough handsome boys in G.H.S. to carry them off to the local hotels for their formal dances!

Doe: That was the year when Confucius was running wild and our class was "going with the wind" — headed by the three tennis stars — Jeanette Bolton, Eleanor Cotton, and Edythe Unaitis.

Moe: Then Delta Sigma Rho brought "Gene and Glen" to town.

Doe: Oh, yes! and this "put the lid" on the activities for the Sophomore year, I guess, because we've run out of the "Exponents" that "Walt" Grader had.

Moe: Let's go and see if "Sid" Yetter, our Junior President, has the "Exponents" for our Junior year.

(Moe and Doe bicycle off in the direction of "Sid" Yetter's botanical gardens. "Sid" emerges from his green house camouflaged with geraniums. "Sid" produces all the "Exponents" issued in the Junior year.)

(Lying under a hydrangea bush, Doe and Moe continue their history.)

Doe: Oh, look! then began our mad craze for petitions with a strenuous drive for hunting and fishing permits and an electric scoreboard, both drives headed by Paul B. Koehler.

Moe: Gee! I'll never forget the Alpha Beta Phi rummage sale. I just dropped in for a minute to see how things were selling, and I sold all that I had and came out in a barrel!

Doe: Next came the time for us to entertain the "know-it-all" Sophomores. Remember, Moe, how you donated your barrel for our punch bowl? In the frenzy to get at the punch, only two Sophomores were drowned!

Moe: We had our first "blackout" the night of "The Emeralds" show. (The lights went off and didn't come back on again until everyone was out of the building.) When this entertainment was repeated the next night, it surely was a big success with "Don" Gilmore and his "Ding Dong Daddy."

Doe: Yes—and our own Carroll Lynde strummed away at his dog house.

Moe: "Bob" Dufraine blew his lungs out, and "Mat" Polo tooted on his "tooter-tommy."

Doe: A little later on came the spectacular showing "Barnum was Right" revealing the hidden talents of "Curly" Thayer and Margaret Lebert. "Don" Gilmore and Carroll Lynde added much to the production.

Moe: And the Latin Club got off to a gay start by presenting in assembly the shadow play, "Dido Died, Oh, Dido." The officers of this remarkable club were: — Paul Koehler, President; "Betty" Hood, Vice-President; Mary Foley, Secretary, and Louise Gray, Treasurer.

Doe: Not to be slighted was the French club headed by Merle Ingraham as President. The club presented some excellent French films.

Moe: That was a good club!

Doe: Not to be forgotten is our baseball team which had such well-known players as Edwin Baker, Robert Berry, Harold Bonneville (commonly known as "Big Bonn"), "Eddie" Brzezinski, "Eddie" Chabot, "Bill" Graves, "Goose" Koblinski, "Bill" Mroz, and "Joe" Totaro.

Moe: And on June seventeenth we scampered off having completed our Junior year.

Doe: Gosh!! we've run out of papers again.

Moe: Who was our next President?

Doe: Oh! don't you remember? It was "him" again — P. B. Koehler.

(Doe and Moe ride off to "Doc" Koehler's office to get the "Exponents" for their Senior year.)

Moe: Weren't we fortunate to find these last "Exponents"?

(Doe and Moe crawl under the operating table chewing some of Koehler's little liver pills.)

Doe: This "Exponent" reminds me how we whizzed back to our final year in good old G.H.S.

Moe: How true! "Fred" Glazier started us off with a new system for choosing class officers. Our new slate of officers was Paul B. Koehler as President, Sophie Wisnewski and "Ted" Collings as Vice Presidents, Merle Ingraham as Secretary, and "Bill" Mroz as Treasurer for the second time.

Doe: Then there was a meeting of the "Quiz Kids" (or Pro Merito) who elected as their President, Merle Ingraham; as Vice Presidents, Rae Koonz; as Secretary, "Betty" Oakes, and as Treasurer, John Pocius.

Moe: Before we knew it, the "Eyes of Tlaloc" were staring at us. We are proud to say that, in many people's opinion, this was the best class play that had been presented for many years.

Doe: Didn't Margaret Lebert and "Fred" Glazier do a good job as Amanda and Ezra Simpkins?

Moe: They certainly did, and so did "Norm" Callahan and "Bernie" Unwin do a good job in playing the parts of "Tommy" Tinker and the professor.

Doe: Vera Regali, who played the part of Nancy, surely did a good job in flooding Paul "Pudge" Koehler with her deluge of tears.

Moe: Gee! how "Joe" Roberge grunted his way through the play as "Nawa," the Indian.

Doe: "Pepita" Falvey and "Salvador" Hough made a dashing South American brother and sister. Didn't they?

Moe: Remember how the whistles blew when Jeanne Clark breezed on to the stage in her dashing black and red gown?

Doe: Not to be forgotten are Edythe Unaitis as "Pat" Gillis, and "Don" Bosworth as John Wayne, both of whom were commended for their fine acting.

Moe: The Latin Club resumed its activities with Doris Golden as President and "Walt" Chevalier as the honest Treasurer.

Doe: Although we hate like the dickens to mention him again, we must say that Paul Koehler was responsible for those dashing chenille letters that graced the backs and fronts of our athletes.

Moe: And who were the officers of the Art Club?

Doe: Ruth Smith was President, Eleanor Weatherby was Vice President and Norma Briggs was Secretary. Remember? It was the Art Club that told us the difference between a Yin and a Yang.

Moe: Our first Ski Club was organized under the enthusiastic leadership of Alvin Comins. This was about the only club in which the girls were not eligible.

Doe: While we are discussing clubs, we should mention the Dramatic Club which was led by "Fred" Glazier and the Music Appreciation Club which was lead by Ruth Hodas.

(It has become very stuffy in "Doe" Koehler's office; so Moe and Doe take to the road once again.)

Doe: Moe! Look out! We're getting too close to those trees. (Crash! Whang! Boom! Bop!)

Moe: (Swinging from one of the lower branches of a near-by tree.) Hey, Doe! Are you all right?

Doe: (Picking herself out of a raspberry bush) No, Moe! I can't stand on one foot.

Moe: Gosh! I'm glad I took that First-Aid Course back in 1942. Just a second and I'll get some bandages at that service station down there. (Moe gallops off in a fast clip.)

Doe: (to herself) I guess sitting home Friday nights during the Courier Service program wasn't a loss of time. Oh! look at him go!

(A few seconds later Moe returns to whip on an ankle bandage, and they continue to look through the few remaining "Exponents.")

Moe: Here's the account of our D.A.R. pilgrim, Elaine Wright. Remember? She's the one who kept our S.A.S. funds straight.

Doe: Oh, look! Merle Ingraham and Paul Koehler were winners of the Oratorical Contest sponsored by the American Legion. Remember, Moe, how your knees shook and what a beautiful green color Paul's face turned!

Moe: How could I forget that and also how bashful "Goose" Koblinski was in assembly when they presented him the cup for being the best football player in Western Massachusetts?

Doe: Poor Mr. Gamelin! The Class of '42 surely finished him.

Moe: That's right! Several of our glamorous students left him with three broken cameras.

Doe: Didn't Hi-Y have a successful year with fourteen girls apparently members of this organization!

Moe: No wonder! with Paul Koehler, the President, setting the fashion.

Doe: Next to the two fine Historians I think the Prophets were about the "tops." Don't you?

Moe: Oh, you mean Margaret Lebert and "Fred" Glazier. Also we must not forget our class marshal, "Ken" Knapp who led us down the aisle.

Doe: Also taking part in our Class Day exercises were "Kay" Hicks, John Pocius, and "Don" Roberts.

Moe: The last thing which took place to remind us of G.H.S. was the Fourteenth Annual Commencement Dance sponsored by the Senior Hi-Y.

Doe: Don't you think that it was the best dance ever given in the high school, Moe?

Moe: Oh, yes! and wasn't that Dartmouth College outfit a keen band! (Turning the page of the last "Exponent") Well, Doe, we finally graduated — Miracle of Miracles!

Doe: Will you ever forget the big tears that "Bill" Graves and George Robichaud shed when they were presented their diplomas? (Tears of joy.)

Moe: Gosh! look how late it is. We have forgotten all about the scavenger hunt. What's the next item, Doe?

Doe: It says here to find a quick exit. —

Moe: Then let's go. —

DORIS ISABEL GOLDEN

Class Prophecy

TIME: Friday, August 13, 1967.

Place: Editor's office of the "Daily Planet," Greenfield's leading newspaper. Circulation — zero, cipher, oh, oh! The conversation is between two well-known journalists, Double Dip Harry (Get it, folks? Two scoops!) and Hotfoot Margie. They took over when Clark Kent left. Being journalists of note, they are discussing economic and political events that have recently transpired.

Hotfoot Margie: Did you read the marriage announcement in this morning's edition?

Double Dip Harry: No, I didn't. What's burning?

H.M.: "Billy" Mroz and Cobina finally were married.

D.D.: Iz zat so! By the way, who is Cobina? That bothered me quite a bit twenty-five years ago.

H.M.: Why, it was Rae Koonz.

D.D.: Say, didn't the present Mrs. Mroz conduct a society ball three months ago in East Greenfield, alias Bingville?

H.M.: Yes, it was some shindig. Mary McGuane sang an operetta. She is a great opera star now and the only living singer that can reach high "R" above high "N." Scientists are amazed. Phyllis Smead is a singer, too. She sings hot blues songs in the "Burn'em Up Cafe." "Dick" Hastings runs the "joint," complete with floor show, electric lights, band, and bouncer. "Stewie" Harvey is the bouncer. "Mike" Grant keeps him busy all night long.

D.D.: I was in there just the other night. Didn't I see Mary Falvey starring in the floor show?

H.M.: Could be.

D.D.: Donald Gilmore was playing the drums in the band, and "Jimmy" Boulger played the piano. "Billy" Graves did a tap dance. He calls it his "Trained Dog" act. When his "dogs" get tired, he quits.

H.M.: Oh, by the way, did you know that Mrs. "Charlie" Antone, formerly Eleanor Grant, recently won a sweepstakes ticket? She said she was going to take her five little ones and visit Niagara Falls. She never managed to get there before.

D.D.: You know, the third time I was up there, "Walt" Barniski and I had to fight for the bridal suite. After we got tired, Henry Chyz calmly walked up and took over.

H.M.: Speaking of romances, Sophie Wisnewski did all right for herself. She married the former President of the United States, John Pocius.

D.D.: Why didn't he run for office again?

H.M.: He had bunions.

D.D.: Kind of corny, but not as corny as the thirty acres "Ray" Beaulac and "Ed" Brassor have plowed up in North Gill.

H.M.: Speaking of corn, Adelard Leveille is in Hollywood. The girls all go for his big green eyes. His fan mail keeps the postman, "Matt" Polo, busy all day long. Adelaide Gashnig is in Hollywood, too. She designs all the clothes for the movie actresses.

D.D.: Wow! No wonder styles are like they are. They almost remind me of the way I used to go for Patricia Wagstaff. She's a waitress now, I hear. Say, what happened to Doris Bilger?

H.M.: She runs a house for the feeble-minded. Arlene Burns and "Peg" Millett have opened a date bureau. They have the same two customers all the time: "Ted" Walker and "Bill" Killeen.

D.D.: Hasn't Ruth Hodas caught up with Killeen yet?

H.M.: Oh, no, she's been married for years to Charles Woodard, the famous inventor of "Quapsidia"—a guaranteed, tobacco-juice stain remover.

D.D.: Do you remember Norman Callahan, our old editor of the "Exponent"? He's our new cub reporter covering obituaries. He had an awful shock the other day when he thought he saw Jeanne Clark on a stone slab, but it wasn't. It was a wax figure on the way to Ronald Menard's Miraculous Museum.

H.M.: I saw his brother, Donald, a couple of days ago. He and Everett Belcher are still arguing over the affections of Helen Niemi. They all have jobs at the city hall. Helen's the scrubwoman, and "Don" and Everett assist her.

D.D.: Seymour Blum dropped in the other day. It seems that he and "Bill" Tyler had an argument. They couldn't agree on the color scheme for their new Rockingham Horse-Racing Park.

H.M.: Too bad! That throws jockey "Muscles" Matthews out of a job. It also takes the means of support away from Richard Doton and William Gates. Now they'll have to go back to shooting "craps."

D.D.: I remember when "Bill" Harris and "Ken" Knapp took me for my roll. They're the boys who taught me how to play "Red Dog." Talking about money, Erskine Harvey has organized the "Midnight Club" and last night initiated "Ted" Collings into the membership. "Ted" is still burning over it.

H.M.: He was the president of the Student Council. Wasn't he?

D.D.: Yes, he was right-hand man to Mr. Watt. If he had led more assemblies, he would have been principal in a very short time.

H.M.: Have you heard about Francis Juskiewicz's newest edition? The book editor handed me a slip on it this morning. Francis has written a book of poems, and Francis Martin wrote one also. They both have laid bets on whose will outsell.

D.D.: "Charlie" Koblinski has just finished his nineteenth year with the Chicago Bears. "Curly" Thayer, "Joe" Totaro, and George Robichaud helped him to win the pennant for the nineteenth consecutive year.

H.M.: Yes, I know. The Irish A.C. has given up trying to beat them and has gone out for ballet dancing. Ceslava Sokolosky is starring in their new stage show. "The Loves of Lucy Gumdrops." The main love is Emil "Casanova" Chevalier. The show stopped the other day when Charles Hillman kept running against Clifford Howes and bouncing out into the lap of the audience. Maybe the fact that the audience was Mary Isles, head of the War Department, had something to do with it.

(Prophets' note: Due to the fact that the two prophets could not agree as to the outcome of Paul Koehler, we now insert two versions.)

VERSION I.

D.D.: And whatever happened to P.K., our old class president?

H.M.: Oh, he was president of his class at Yale and just recently married Doris Golden. He has an executive position now. Surely you must have heard of Koehler's Quick Garbage Collecting Agency!?!

VERSION II.

D.D.: Doris Golden had to call in a friend, Betty Murley (who is now a society matron), for help in order to lift the cake, which she had just baked, into a box to send to her hubby, Paul B. Koehler, who is now in Elm Street College. Included in the cake was a file, two hammers, a saw, and a cold chisel.

H.M.: How did Paul get put in jail?

D.D.: It seems that Koehler, who is now a senior, kept sending checks to himself. He was trying to get enough rubber for a set of tires.

END OF VERSIONS

H.M.: "Ray" Kingsley is now employed in the engineering department of the Tap and Die. He was the only man who could supply enough compressed air to keep the machines going. Merle "Patrick Henry" Ingraham is organizer of the local union up there. It is rumored that he is the deciding factor in the success of the union. Backing him up are "Muscles" Frank Chruseiel, "Superman" Francis Gadowski, and William "Charles Atlas" Guillow. They are members of the Persuading Department.

D.D.: John Hayes has inherited his father's knack for running hotels. Seeking larger quarters for the Cabot Lodge, he has annexed the Weldon.

H.H.: "Milly" Gibas and "Betty" Oakes are running a boarding house. "Milly's" husband, Roger Morell, makes the beds and feeds the chickens. "Betty" Oakes isn't married yet, as she can't make up her mind between Donald Mahar and George Marshall. Both are earning "seads of dough." Poor "Betty" finds it very confusing. "Lizzie" Organ has been trying to start publishing a magazine, but she can't get the capital. She wanted "Art" Muka to sell part of his huge maple-sugar orchard up in Leyden, but he didn't dare take the risk. "Lizzie" is the publisher of Myrtle Lambert's book, "Stay in Style with Stella Stropper."

D.D.: Louise Gray runs "Rita's" now. Jeanette Bolton and Ruth Cranson are her right-hand men. Jeanette has her "R.N.", and "Bill" Shea is a steady patient. He's concocted a case of heart murmur.

H.M.: "Bob" Dufraine has opened a diner down in South Deerfield. He calls it the "House of Mastication." The floor show consists of Mary Foley, streamlined zipper girl; Vera "Claudia" Regali, juggling specialist whose specialty is balancing on her nose a cane, a hat, two shoes, a pair of trousers, a shirt, a tie, and "Tony" Pregony; Donald Pollard, who is in charge of advertising. Pollard's dancing act receives a great deal of publicity.

D.D.: Francis Fuchs has invented a new type of airplane. The speed and the altitude that it can attain make it the finest military aircraft in the world. It seems funny now to see the moon go down chased by a rocket ship. Wayland Fargo helped figure out the wing-load ratio of this plane. "Jimmy" O'Neil was indispensable because of the fact that he learned a complete five-place logarithm table and is now considered a foremost authority on trigonometric and algebraic problems. Ronald Partenheimer is the pilot of the newest creation. Hostess de luxe is Elaine Singley.

H.M.: "Johnny" Sullivan is rich now. He invented a bicycle with a rubber, air-cushioned seat. "Bernie" Unwin is draftsman for "Tootsie Toys, Inc." "Billy" Valvo is foreman of a black-gang in the diamond mines of South Africa. What's Ruth Smith doing?

D.D.: I don't know. I haven't called her up yet tonight. The last I heard, though, she was a floor-walker in a telephone booth. Edith Unaitis is a receptionist at the House of Correction.

H.M.: Rita Sevene tells bedtime stories on the radio. Her most ardent fan is Donald Tuttle. Her sponsor is Russell Snow, manufacturer of Snow's Sneeze Cure Soap Powder. Marjorie Turner is a radio star, also. She and Edwin Slowinski are "Radio Song Birds."

D.D.: John Summers is a technician at the G.O.S.H. studios. Sound effects man is "Joe" Roberge. He loves to make all the different kinds of noises.

H.M.: I heard Gloria Rose on "Us, the Folks" last night. She had two of her children with her, and they sang a duet all during the program. Francis Lemay was the announcer. He's the one who smoked Drool cigarettes and has the voice you love to hear.

D.D.: Elaine Wright has written a book entitled "Pilgrim's Progress." It is expected to be a best seller. "Charlie" Zon, who has made millions selling the four-in-one knife sharpener, expects to buy up all the books. "Charlie" recently received a complaint from Helen Zalenski, who is a new customer. She said, "Your knife sharpener doesn't work. I tried it on one of my kitchen knives, and my husband, 'Sid' Yetter, is still alive."

H.M.: Eleanor and Evelyn Weatherby recently won a prize in the "Youngest Twins in Maine" contest. Their fiancé, Harold Zetterberg, is governor of Mashmazka, Pop.

D.D.: Herbert Seaman, automobile racer de luxe, recently won the dangerous race to the summit of Rocky Mountain. The only reason that he won was that Clarence Turner, usher at Donald Roberts' Theater, let him out early. His opponent in the race, Floyd Rondeau, was angry because his girl friend, Mary Samal, wanted to see the ending of "The Fast Walking Stick" (just another name for "The Hurricane") and insisted on staying. I don't blame her because the ending comes when movie actor, Harvey Phelps, clinches with actress, Annie O'Kulecz.

H.M.: Wasn't "Eddie" Parody in the theater with Betty Hood? They'll be having their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary soon.

D.D.: Yes, they certainly will. Say, I hear that "Kay" Hicks has finally broken up with Sheldon Field.

H.M.: Didn't you know? They were going to start a bottle manufacturing company, and they couldn't decide whether to make baby bottles or milk bottles. So the concern broke up.

D.D.: "Don" Vetterling has won the typewriting title of Speed King of the World. He was using a machine built by Chester Wollender. "Chet" went into partnership with Harold White in making typewriters, bottle caps, pencils, silk "undies," wigs, and dictionaries.

H.M.: I saw in the society news yesterday that Helen Adzema has just come back from Miami Beach. She won a bathing-beauty contest. She plans to compete with Anna Campbell for the title of Miss America. The two judges will be Walter Chevalier and John Cominoli. They just love their work.

D.D.: Their pay must run up to some pretty large figures. Say, Hotfoot, did you read the front page? It told all about G-Man Nelson Gilbert and how he captured those diamond thieves single-handed.

H.M.: Isn't he wonderful? It almost makes me feel like a sob-sister again. Say, Double Dip, have you met our latest sob-sister, Rita Hanley? She's doing quite well. In our last edition she wrote a beautiful love story between a grocery-man, "Ken" Carpenter, and his long-lost sweetheart, Arlene Metzler. They were separated for twenty-five years; and one day he was delivering a pound of butter and some cinnamon to a new customer. He walked into the house, and there she was. It was quite sad.

D.D.: Leo Long has gone into the grocery business, too. He was going to be a real-estate agent, but Janice Weeks talked him out of it. She told him it was easier to sell groceries than land, and groceries tasted better.

H.M.: That makes sense. I was in that neighborhood covering a story just this afternoon. A little boy had been scaring all the neighbors with a shotgun. He kept sticking the barrel in everybody's face saying, "I wonder if it's loaded. Would you mind looking?"

D.D.: Whose child was it?

H.M.: Barbara Vincent's and her latest husband's, "Two-Gun Eddie" Weir. "Ed" was going hunting with "Billy" Wysockie, the champion skunk hunter of the world, but he couldn't find his gun. That was caused by his son's having it.

D.D.: Ah, yes, just like his father. I was going by Thirteenth Street, and I saw "Eddie" Chabot standing on a soap box. He wants everyone to vote for Alvin Comins for assistant to the assistant of the assistant Secretary of State, Robert Berry.

H.M.: I saw Bob's wife, the former Eleanor Aaron, yesterday. She was wearing the most gorgeous pink and red gown trimmed with yellow flowers.

D.D.: Nice taste. That reminds me. Didn't Harold Bonneville's Bon Bon Bakery go out of business the other day?

H.M.: Yes, his wife, Charlotte Carpenter, kept eating up all the profits.

D.D.: Too bad. Well, that's the way life is! I was talking to "Don" Bosworth lately. He was having wife trouble, but one day he told her who was boss.

H.M.: Where did you see him?

D.D.: In Harriette Blum's Hospital for Badly Bruised Bodies.

H.M.: That was quite an exciting robbery in "Ed" Brzezinski's Vegetable Emporium yesterday. His store specializes in Chinese eggs. Five masked bandits held up Katherine Brady, the clerk, and locked her in the refrigerator. There was room because they stole the five pounds of sugar stored there.

D.D.: Oh, well, Mary Sorenson, the Snooper, will catch up with them soon enough. Her employer, John Powers, chief of police, has cleaned up this city quite a bit.

H.M.: Yes, remember when "Tough Guy" Martin Singley, the three-gun gangster, and his moll, Shirley "Triple Dot Dash" Johnson, used to run everything?

D.D.: Those were the good old days. Shirley and Martin have reformed now. Chief Powers gave them a good talking to. He told them that they were bad. They cried and cried. Now they are running a nursery — for flowers.

H.M.: How sweet! Goodness, there aren't very many marriage announcements in the latest issue.

D.D.: No. Practically everybody in the old gang is married. Sad, isn't it?

H.M.: Paul Sullivan, the famous foreign correspondent, and his wife, Dorothy Woodlock, have just come back from Africa. Paul was kept very busy declining dinner invitations from the natives.

D.D.: Paul's friend, "Ed" Clough, the animal tamer, was down there hunting tigers. He's not half as afraid of them as he is of women.

H.M.: No, he isn't like most of the boys. Say, D.D., did you read the article on page 4e, paragraph 167? It's written by Julius Adams. He is out of a job right now and wants to correspond with a wealthy widow who has no children, is nice looking and under 49. He's lonely and "broke."

D.D.: The "funnies" are fairly funny now. Antoinette Dzierzonaski, the world-known cartoonist, is certainly a sketch. She can draw a cartoon of Walter Baltasar Grader, our present president, like nothing at all.

H.M.: When "Walt" first took office, he appointed Lee Banning as postmaster of West Gill. Lee is getting a petition up so that Gill can be placed on the map. He wants weekly mail service, five radios, and telephone connections with the metropolis of Greenfield. It seems that they just got the news from their most prominent citizen, Edwin Baker, who had just visited Greenfield, that Napoleon had been defeated at Waterloo.

D.D.: At the last town meeting we had, "Bill" Hough was appointed fire chief by our city manager, Arnold Gay. That means we will have to appropriate more money for the fire department this year.

H.M.: Why?

D.D.: Because Shirley A. Johnson will try to collect fire insurance and get married at the same time.

H.M.: Dorothy Worden is running a Stop-in-Style Shop, featuring curb service. Dresses made while you wait. Barrels rented, ten cents a barrel. Isabelle Ducharme is the dress designer, and Mary Fleek is the model.

D.D.: "Phil" Earnest told me that he went in there the other day to get an Easter ensemble for his wife, Norma Briggs. He had a misunderstanding with her and would like to get back in the house.

H.M.: Any time you want to dig up an old friend just ask for "Herby" Greene. He's caretaker at the Six-Foot Cemetery in Turners Falls.

D.D.: Say, H.M., did you see Blanche Niedbala's column in our competitor's newspaper, run by Philip Tuttle? Blanche made the fantastic statement that Helen Prasol nearly drowned because she wanted to be figure head on Thelma Moreland's yacht.

H.M.: What's so fantastic about that?

D.D.: Nothing. Harold Markoski, skipper of the boat, leaned over the mizzenmast, hauled her aboard, and gave her artificial respiration, thanks to George Billings.

H.M.: Edith Gurney and Pauline Grybko took a trip around the world, leaving their husbands, "Shermie" Duncan and Alan Goodrich respectively, at home. That means that Lillian Gardner's Glass Works will have to go on double time now to supply enough chinaware to keep the men from washing dishes till their wives' return.

D.D.: Irene Babino is an air-raid warden. She's going to have to get transferred to the day shift so that she won't have to be out at night. The last air raid came at night, and she stayed home because she was afraid of the dark.

H.M.: "Willy" Archambo, chief of the auxiliary police for blackout protection, made his first arrest last night. Paul Gibson had just come out of Marion Behaylo's Tap Room and lit a match because he wanted to see what the blackout looked like when Archambo took him in.

D.D.: That reminds me of the time when Anna Babits put a string across the top of the hall. Her husband, Donald Sweeney, trying to come in quietly, fell down the stairs, tripped over the string, woke up the cat; the cat jumped on the stove, kicked off the lamp; the lamp fell on a box of matches; the matches lit; the kitchen drapes caught on fire; the fire department responded to the call; the police came; reporters from the "Daily Planet" were on the job, and Sweeney played the hero's role. His wife, who had set the trap to catch Sweeney when he came in late after a session with the boys, had failed to wake up even through all the commotion, and "Don" bravely jumped into the blazing inferno and saved the cat.

H.M.: Virginia Ryan and Eunice Snyder went through a terrible experience like that down in East Podunk, Illinois, last year. They forgot to jump in the storm cellar when the tornado came their way, and so they landed at the home of the Wizard of Oz. Now they are employed in Shirley Staiger's Side Show doing magical tricks.

D.D.: I saw that show recently. A few of the people I saw in the side show were Mary Scanlon, fat woman; Mary Sanborn, snake charmer; and Florence Beck, barker. I like to watch her mouth go. She would have made a better rubber woman than Eleanor Cotton did.

H.M.: Ida Bugbee is advertising manager of a large firm. Her motto is: "If you have a product, we will get you buyers. We sell everything from pins to steamboats." Ida made millions recently when she and "Tessie"

Ciolek handled "Art" Maniatty's automatic auto. "Tessie" was the one who thought up the motto, "If our car won't drive by itself, you'd better duck quick."

D.D.: That advertising is almost as good as the time Pauline Miller was on the radio giving a talk for Fixem Cosmetics. She chose as her title, "What Makes You Beautiful?" She gave hints and gave practical demonstrations because it was a television broadcast. She demonstrated on Gloria Moody and Anna McCarthy, giving a mud massage and vinegar hair oil treatment mixed with a little calcium bromide. Improvements can already be seen — in the vinegar.

H.M.: "Lizzie" Looney is leader of an all-girl band. She calls it "The Sizzling Skirts and Their Red Hot Jive." To get in the mood for playing every night they have Anne Laskey cook Mexican dishes to warm them up. It was all right the first time, but, when she cooked Mexican jumping beans, they had to change the name to "The Sizzling Skirts and Their Jumping Jive." Anna Kardys is the fly in the ointment. She just can't resist pouring catsup down the saxophone.

D.D.: John Shibilo, who is madly in love with Jean Nourse, the bass horn player, jumped into the bass horn and sang "Blues in the Night."

H.M.: Kathleen Mason recently left the orchestra as she attained a new position blowing soap bubbles for Sally Rand. Bertha Newton had that job, but, when Sally found she wasn't getting as much attention, she discharged her.

D.D.: Paul Simmons is a contractor. He recently submitted the lowest bid for building a bridge over the river to Turners Falls. Wallace Renaud, who has connections with the governor, wanted some means of getting across the river to see how the other half lives.

H.M.: Richmond Purple is having quite a time supplying enough electric light bulbs for the bridge. The people from Turners keep breaking them. Over there they want a blackout every night.

D.D.: Marie Dwyer is a chemist research worker. She is trying to find out what makes grass green. Startling developments will be issued soon. She says, if she can find out, she will be able to find out why Ernest Gaudry works. It's just one of those things that we don't know about.

H.M.: Norma Galbraith has finally fallen in love. The lucky man is Donald Rau. They plan to be married in June. He is the one that claims he can solve the gasoline shortage in the East. He says, "Don't use gas."

D.D.: Last Monday, as I walked down Federal Street, I bumped into June Lynes. She's a nutrition expert and is responsible for the discovery of vitamin X. It was the unknown quantity.

H.M.: I have a story here on my desk which is going into the evening edition. Gloria Lanfair and Louise Roscoe are going to become caterers at the "High Flying Inn." They cater only to rich people.

D.D.: I think that we should also add that Lewis Rucci is building a new Poet's Seat Tower. The old one is "just plain worn out." There will be six stories instead of four to accommodate more people.

H.M.: Well, let's go look it over. It should make a good human interest story for our column.

D.D.: I'm glad all our old classmates have succeeded so well. Come on, Hotfoot, let's show them what we can do! There's life in the old town yet.

H.M.: "O.K.", D.D. I'm right with you. Let's go!

Ivy Ode

Tune — Auld Lang Syne

We plant this ivy here today
    As a token from our class;
It stands for all the things we've done
    In the three years swiftly passed.
Yet may it ever bring to mind
    Honor and loyalty,
The motto we all love so well
    And need to make us free.

May every year this ivy grow
    More beautiful and tall,
And every year its tendrils cling
    That it may never fall.
Just as the ivy thrives in time
    On these walls of G.H.S.
We, too, will always upward strive
    Toward the goal that spells success.

ELAINE KUNZMAN WRIGHT

Class Song

Tune — Marine's Hymn

From the class of Nineteen Forty-two
To our Alma Mater dear
We will sing a song of sad farewell,
As we leave our school days here.
Scholarship and truth and loyalty —
These are hopes we have in mind;
And, no matter where our class may roam,
We will keep these thoughts enshrined.

You have taught us all our high ideals
For the life we will now lead,
And we shall not soon forget the school;
Its high standards we will heed.
Years will always come and always go;
Life may treat us well, we'll find,
But the future cannot be the same
As the school life left behind.

We, the class of Nineteen Forty-two,
By our own dear G.H.S.
Have all been taught the way to win;
Have all learned of success.
On and on we'll go to reach our goal,
And we'll always keep with us
All your faith and joy and happy times
In our memories, G.H.S.
